

Stand by what you sell

WEBINAR - ALRTA

Help your industry stand by what it sells

Despite all the challenges of late – drought, fires, floods, COVID – the Australian livestock industry continues to get on with business. Now more than ever, it's important we protect the reputation of our $28 billion industry.

The foundations of Australia's red meat integrity system are Livestock Production Assurance (LPA), the National Livestock Identification System (NLIS) and National Vendor Declarations (NVDs). This system means customers around the world trust Australian red meat is safe, ethically produced and high quality.

While livestock producers are responsible for keeping their integrity records in order, transporters have an important role to play in the integrity system.

Join us to check you've got the right info, with discussion covering:

- How the integrity system fits within compliance requirements, such as work, health and safety; management of fatigue, effluent and curfew; as well as fit to load requirements.
- Changes to National Vendor Declarations
- Waybill compliance ... do you need a physical or hard copy? What does the faster, easier new eNVD platform mean for transporters?
- Q&A with the Integrity Systems Company team
